What are Soft Skills?

Changing the Paradigm

---

Soft Skills

- Known under several names: Generic Skills, Skills for Life, Key Skills/Competences, Transversal Skills, etc.
- A competence is defined as the ability to successfully meet complex demands in a particular context through the mobilization of knowledge, (cognitive, metacognitive, socio-emotional and practical) skills, attitudes and values.

Changing the paradigm

Traditional Soft Skills Paradigm

- Generic approach
- Context-independent
- Instrumental-based (Communication, planning, Time management, etc)
- Easy to teach

New Soft Skills Paradigm

- Human and Cultural Capital approach
- Complex and holistic
- Grounded in contextual and professional needs
- Difficult to teach
- Adding personal, social and professional value

Key Competence (soft skill)

- are learnable and teachable;
- contribute to highly valued individual outcomes (gainful employment, income, personal health and safety, political participation, intellectual resources, social networks, cultural participation) and societal outcomes (economic productivity, democratic processes, solidarity, social cohesion, human rights and peace, equity and equality, ecological sustainability);
- are instrumental for meeting important complex demands in a wide spectrum of contexts;
- are important for all individuals;
- involve a higher level of mental complexity, identified as reflectivity/reflectiveness or reflective practice implying the use of metacognitive skills, creative abilities and taking a critical stance.

Universities impact on labour market

01

---

It is essential that higher education offer matches the skills gaps at local, regional and international level.

02

It is increasingly important to make the existing curricula more competitive and tuned to the forthcoming changes.

03

---

To make higher education institutions more responsive to skill demands is to help them effectively assess the extent to which their programs offer an appropriate curricula for acquiring and developing the skills that are relevant for the labour market.

Teaching and learning strategy

Soft skills assessment strategy

---

- Soft skills integration into the curricula, not as external part.
- Engaging students in their learning process:
  - Leading their learning process
  - Contextual and authentic activities
  - Relation with employers and society requirements
  - Comprehensive and critical approach
  - Continuous self-assessment process
- Regular (continuous) measurements of knowledge, skills and attitudes.

Closing remarks

- Soft skills can be considered integrated with hard skills and can be taught together with them
- The context play an important role for soft skills and can't be separate from it.
- Soft skills involve several actors: teachers, classmates, employers... A true dialogue between them is needed.
- A precise measurement for soft skills is impossible

- To effective soft skills teaching we need to update didactics and teaching and learning methodologies.
- New technologies can be very powerful to teach soft skills
- Collaboration between universities and companies play an important role in the development of soft skills
- Soft skills are not only necessary for professional activity, can make people happier.
